In America!

Every March 17, the United States becomes an emerald country for a day. Americans wear green clothes and drink green beer. Green milkshakes, bagels and grits appear on menus. Chicago even dyes its river green! Revelers from coast to coast celebrate all things Irish by hoisting pints of Guinness and cheering bagpipers, step dancers and marching bands parading through city streets. These familiar annual traditions weren't imported from Ireland, however. They were made in America. Boston has long staked claim to the first St. Patrick's Day celebration in the American colonies. The meal that became a St. Patrick's Day staple across the country—corned beef and cabbage—was also an American innovation. McCormack says corned beef became a staple of Irish-Americans living in lower Manhattan. In Ireland, celebrating St. Patrick's day is a solemn occasion. Americans certainly celebrate St. Patrick's day in a more traditional way!

Pisces are highly creative and imaginative, Walker reports, as well as compassionate and loving. Their emotional sensitivity factor is high, helping them to remain in tune with others but also leaving them vulnerable to criticism, worrying a lot about the effect that their actions might have on others.
